Students can receive credit for either ECON 2100 or ECON 2101, or for ECON 2105/2106. Students cannot receive credit for ECON 2100 and ECON 2101 or for ECON 2100 and ECON 2105/2106 or for ECON 2101 and ECON 2105/2106.

Course learning outcomes:

- Understand the key economic terms, principles and models.
- Understand the structure and functioning of a country's economy and that of the global economy.
- Able to critically think about and analyze economic arguments for economic policy and globalization.

Required course materials:

Principles of Economics, by N. Gregory Mankiw. ISBN: 9780357722718 (textbook) or 9780357722848 (e-textbook).

Grading policy:

The course grade will be based on two in-class tests (in Weeks 5 and 10 of the term) and a final exam (at the end of the term), all of which are cumulative in terms of the subject material evaluated. The tests and the final exam will each account for 30% of the final grade. The remaining 10% will be based on regular active participation in class (number and quality of questions, answers to others' questions, contributions to discussions).

Final grades will be awarded as follows : 90 – 100 A, 80 – 89 B, 70 – 79 C, 60 – 69 D, below 60 F.

Attendance policy:

You are expected to attend all classes, as you are responsible for all the material covered in class, including any deviations from the tentative course schedule as well as class discussions on applications of the theory and any additional topics not listed in the course schedule. In addition, your final grade would benefit from bonus points awarded for regular active participation in class. Finally, note that students who miss many classes or who are habitually late will not benefit from any possible class-curved grading adjustment at the end of the term.

Academic honesty/integrity statement:

Students are expected to maintain the highest standards of academic integrity. All work submitted must be original and properly cited. Plagiarism, cheating, or any form of academic dishonesty will result in immediate consequences as outlined in the university's academic integrity policy.
