Academic year: 2025

Course description:

In this course, you will learn to recognize, assess, consider, and articulate the ways that ethical principles are deeply informed by humanistic and philosophical inquiry, which in turn shapes our lived histories, politics, and cultural expressions across a range of disciplines and professions. This course discusses the history of medicine and medical technologies; literary and popular representations of health, disease, and the medical establishment; ethical issues related to medicine and public health; and cultural conditions affecting the development of medicine and medical technologies. Subjects include interpersonal conflicts between doctors and patients, the Tuskegee syphilis study and the establishment of bioethics, the race among researchers to discover the HIV virus causing AIDS, sustainability and public health, patients' rights, and genetic technology.

Prerequisites: ENGL 1101, ENGL 1102. Attributes: Humanities, Ethics

Course learning outcomes:

- To increase awareness of the cultural factors affecting the development of biomedical knowledge and practice
- To increase awareness of and think critically about the role of biomedicine, including its technological means, in culture
- To explore nuance and ambiguity in ethical debates about research and practice in biomedicine
- To communicate in sophisticated ways about these issues of broad concern, orally and in writing

Required course materials:

All texts for the class will be made available on the Canvas site either through a pdf or link to an external source.

Grading policy:

All written assignments should be posted to the class Canvas site. Any postings should be in the body of the message (not sent as attachments). Late assignments will be penalized and will not be accepted after two weeks unless you arrange with the instructor in advance of the due date.

Attendance policy:

Because class discussion and in-class assignments make up a significant percentage of the final grade, excessive absences (more than 2) could result in an unsatisfactory mark. Submit the appropriate documents to the instructor for medical, athletic, or other justified absences. Extended absences away from campus for family, medical, or legal reasons should be reported to the Dean of Students Office. The Georgia Tech Office of Student Life in Atlanta also has information: <https://studentlife.gatech.edu/content/class-attendance>Links to an external site.

Academic honesty/integrity statement:

Students are expected to maintain the highest standards of academic integrity. All work submitted must be original and properly cited. Plagiarism, cheating, or any form of academic dishonesty will result in immediate consequences as outlined in the university's academic integrity policy.

Core IMPACTS statement(s) (if applicable):
